The Morton Era Begins

THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN

The University of Wisconsin, one of the world's leading institutions of higher education, is dedicated to the support of academic freedom.

Established in 1848, the first class of 17 students assembled February 5, 1849. Today, the University of Wisconsin includes 13 schools and colleges, 133 academic departments, more than 45,000 students and 14,000 employees, nearly 4,000,000 volumes in 22 libraries, a $750,000,000 budget, and research and development expenditures totalling $185,000,000 (third largest in the U.S.).

Wisconsin has ranked among the top ten universities in the United States in every scholarly reputational study since 1910. Combining the results of seven major ratings since 1925, Prof. David Webster of the University of Pennsylvania, writing for the June, 1983 Change magazine, ranked the University of Wisconsin fourth in the nation - behind Harvard, California-Berkeley and Yale, and tied with the University of Chicago. More than 4,100 courses and 12,600 sections were offered in the fall of 1986. Majors were available in 151 bachelor's, 191 master's, and 123 doctor's degree programs.

UW departments ranked among the top ten in the nation in the 1983 Assessment of Research-Doctorate Programs in the United States include Sociology (1st), German, Chemical Engineering and Geography (2nd), Statistics (4th), Plant Pathology, Molecular Biology and Biochemistry (5th), Spanish and Portuguese (6th), Zoology (7th), Political Science, Chemistry and Economics (8th), Mathematics (9th), and History (10th).

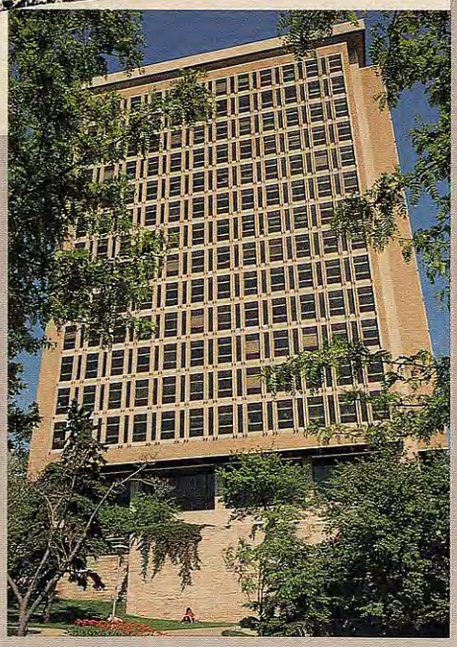
The UW's international activities extend the boundaries of the campus to all parts of the globe. The campus has about 3,600 foreign students from 125 countries, offers some 50 foreign languages for study, and has the largest overall number of international studies faculty and largest number of faculty of any university in East Asian, South and Southeast Asian, African and Latin American studies. Junior year abroad programs are offered for students going to Brazil, China, England, France, West Germany, Hungary, Israel, India, Italy, Spain, Sweden, Norway, Nepal, Thailand and Mexico and Quebec for summer study.

The UW's Center for Health Sciences is one of the Midwest's leading centers for patient care, education of physicians and other health professionals, research and public service. It includes the Medical, Nursing, Pharmacy, and Allied Health Professions schools; UW Hospital and Clinics; State Laboratory of Hygiene; UW Health Service; and Wisconsin Clinical Cancer Center - one of 21 designated cancer centers in the country.

More than 400 campus organizations offer a wide variety of activities for Wisconsin students - including social, political, philosophic or religious, sports, honorary, ecological, philanthropic, drama and music groups plus fraternities and sororities. Film societies show 400 titles a year, and the intramural recreation program services some 35,000 students and staff at five indoor recreational facilities every month.



Van Hise Hall, home of foreign languages at the UW, towers above the central campus and overlooks Lake Mendota.

1987 WISCONSIN FOOTBALL OUTLOOK

University of Wisconsin Football turns in another new direction in the Fall of 1987. For the second straight season, Badger gridiron fortunes will be under the guidance of a new head coach.

Youthful and energetic Don Morton brings an interesting twist to Camp Randall and the Big Ten Conference with his exuberance for the veer offense. As co-author with current TCU coach Jim Wacker of "The Explosive Veer Offense for Winning Football", Morton is recognized as one of the country's up and coming coaching minds, and Badger fans and opponents alike can expect a radical new look to the Cardinal and White when the 98th year of Wisconsin Football kicks off on September 12th.

Since assuming his UW duties last December, Morton's first pre-season was dominated by "getting to know you" sessions with players, coaches, fans and media. His energy, optimism and commitment in selling his program have been the subject of conversations around the state and across the midwest. But now, and most immediately, he sets his sights on putting forth the best Wisconsin Football Team he possibly can.

"As far as football philosophy," Morton says, "we're an option football team. We don't like to be categorized as a running team. Option football is finesse football; it's exciting, it's explosive.

"We've always been able to move the football. We have a very effective passing game; we're not immune to the passing game. But we refuse to throw the ball 40 or 50 times a game. If somebody wants to give me a lifetime contract, we'll throw it 40 or 50 times a game. But until that happens, we're going to do what it takes to win.

"Winning means establishing a great defense, having a great rushing game, a very effective passing game, and a very sound, thoroughly-coached, thoroughly-taught kicking game. We're going to be brilliant on the basics.

"People love to talk about buzz words - 'x' blitzes and 'y' blitzes and 'z' patterns and so on. Football is basic blocking and tackling, keeping your leverage - being brilliant on the basics. That's what we will do at the University of Wisconsin."

Yes, he's the first to admit it won't be easy. And it might not be an overnight success story. But if anyone can get the Badgers off and running down the road to success once again, it appears Don Morton is just the one to do it.

THE OFFENSIVE SIDE

The 1987 Badgers return seven starters (based on the lineup for the final game of 1986) and 18 lettermen on the offensive side for 1987. The returning starters are guards Paul Gruber and Glenn Derby, center Rod Lossow, tackle Todd Nelson, tight end Brian Anderson, quarterback Bud Keyes, and wide receiver Scott Bestor. Other returning offensive lettermen include linemen Keith Peterson, Solomon Ashby and Steve Rux, running backs Marvin Artley, Steve Vinci and Leon Hunt, receivers James Ross and Fred Bobo, tight end Brant Kennedy and quarterback Paul Chryst.

Keys to a more productive offense in 1987 will certainly center around the team's incorporation of the veer, but the Badgers must also improve their effectiveness in crossing their opponent's goal line. Wisconsin scored 17 or fewer points in nine of the 12 games last Fall.

All-American candidate Paul Gruber will anchor the offensive line.

OFFENSIVE LINE: Outstanding size and potential here with All-American and All-Big Ten candidate and guard Paul Gruber (6-4/291), All-Big Ten candidate and guard Glenn Derby (6-6/290), rugged starting center Rod Lossow (6-3/272) and oncoming tackle Todd Nelson (6-5/270). Gruber, who started all 12 games a year ago, was the team's "offensive player of the week" against Hawaii and Indiana and earned second team All-Big Ten acclaim, was named to the 1987 Playboy Pre-Season All-American Team. Derby (the Badgers' "offensive player of the week" vs Michigan State and an honorable mention All-Big Ten selection), started all 12 games as did Nelson. Lossow, who was selected as the UW's "offensive player of the week" vs Illinois, missed just two (NIU and UNLV) due to injury.

Other veteran offensive linemen include tackle/guard Keith Peterson (five starts in 1986), center Steve Rux (two starts), and guard Solomon Ashby (three starts).

Top challengers for backup roles include returnees Milan Momcilovic, David Strauser, Jerry Butler, Nick Polczinski, Michael Smrekar, Jim Basten, Matt Joki, Brady Pierce, Joe Magazzeni and Mike Gromacki.

Incoming freshmen slated in pre-season as line prospects are Rick Godfrey (St. Charles, IL) and Jeff Miller (Manitowoc).

Guard Glenn Derby seeks All-Big Ten honors in 1987.

WIDE RECEIVERS/TIGHT ENDS: Should be a solid unit in 1987, with the return of lettermen Scott Bestor, Bill Williams, James Ross and Fred Bobo at wide receiver, and Brian Anderson and Brant Kennedy at tight end. The top loss was Reggie Tompkins, who led the Badgers in receiving last year with 32 catches for 443 yards and two touchdowns.

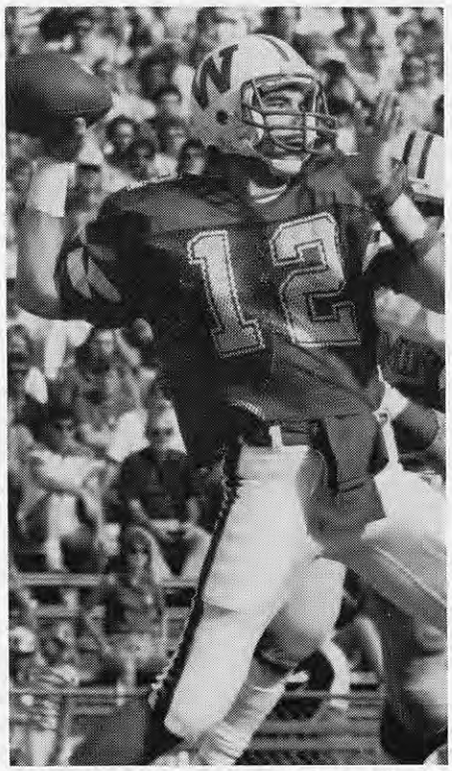
Bestor, who started the final eight games of 1986, is the leading returning wideout after catching 19 passes for 247 yards in 1986. Williams, who demonstrated great ability as a freshman, caught nine for 132 yards and will be a player to watch in the Big Ten this Fall. Bobo and Ross, both who have previous starting experience, were hampered throughout 1986 by foot injuries. Bobo started the second, third and fourth games of the previous campaign, catching eight aerials for 123 yards and two touchdowns, while Ross was the starter in the season opener at Hawaii.

Others to watch at wide receiver include returnees David Burks, Tyran Washington and Steve Wallace. An incoming freshman wideout is George Brown (Milwaukee).

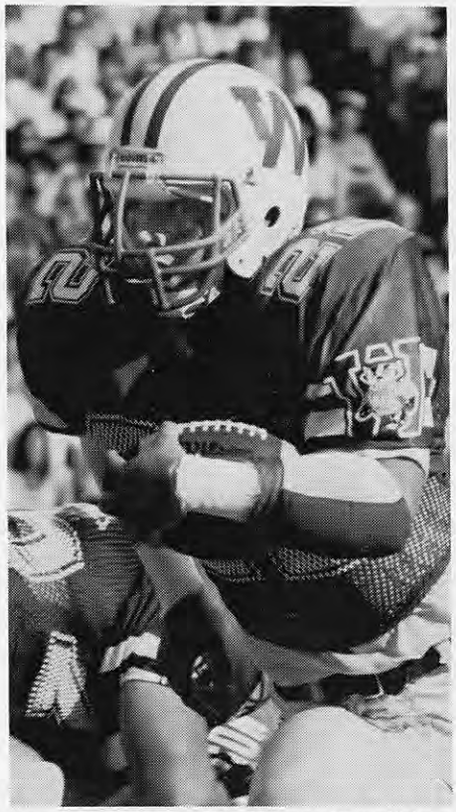
Tight end shows strength in returning starter Brian Anderson, letterman Brant Kennedy, and Daniel Howell. The 6-5, 235-pound Anderson grabbed 16 aerials for 118 yards and was the team's "offensive player of the week" in back-to-back games vs Nevada-Las Vegas and Wyoming. The 6-4, 235-pound Kennedy snared 14 for 126 yards, including an 18-yard TD against Michigan. All three also possess good blocking ability, a talent that will become even more of a factor in Morton's veer. Freshmen tight end prospects are John Filiatraut (Livonia, MI), Jeff Krieger (Fridley, MN) and Phil Peterson (Amery).

QUARTERBACKS: Familiar faces return in 1986 starter Bud Keyes and letterman Paul Chryst, but the position itself will take on new responsibilities under the veer. Keyes, who enjoyed a strong spring session after starting the final seven games of 1986, has established himself at No. 1 heading into the Fall. He picked up the new system well in spring ball and showed good mobility. He led the Badgers in total offense in 1986 with 1,113 yards on 214 plays for a 5.2-yard average, and completed 93 of 174 passes (.534) for 1,002 yards and five TD's. Paul Chryst, who enters the Fall at No. 2, will push for playing time as well as continue his holding duties for the kicking unit.

Challenging for a back-up role is Tim Kowalski, while incoming freshmen are Otis Flowers (Houston, TX), Tony Lowery (Columbus, OH) and Mark Mangum (Austin, TX).



Team total offense leader Bud Keyes will guide the Badger attack.



Running Back Steve Vinci's versatility will be a key for the UW this fall.

RUNNING BACKS: Don Morton's veer offense will present new challenges for Badger running backs in 1987. Gone are standouts Larry Emery and Joe Armentrout, but top returnees include powerful 6-1, 235-pound Marvin Artley, a two-year letterman who started six games in 1986 and carried 77 times for 324 yards; Steve Vinci, who started against both Wyoming and Michigan last Fall and concluded the campaign with 43 carries for 142 yards; and letterman Leon Hunt. Two others who will battle for starting roles are talented sophomore Eric Ford and junior UW track team sprinter Shawn Peters, who's impressive speed could make a strong impact in the veer.

Others to watch are juniors Bill Rose and John Partington, sophomores Fred Owens (missed all of 1986 with a knee injury) and Tyrone Campbell, and walk-on Terrence Gatling. Incoming freshmen slated at running back are Louis Curtis, Jr (Oklahoma City, OK), Malcolm Johnson (Madison), Brendan Lynch (Hinsdale, IL) and Rafael Robinson (Jefferson, TX).

THE DEFENSIVE SIDE

With the anchors of Badger defenses of the past few seasons now gone, Don Morton and defensive coordinator Mike Daly will call on a number of new faces here in 1987 as Wisconsin will put an extra emphasis on speed.

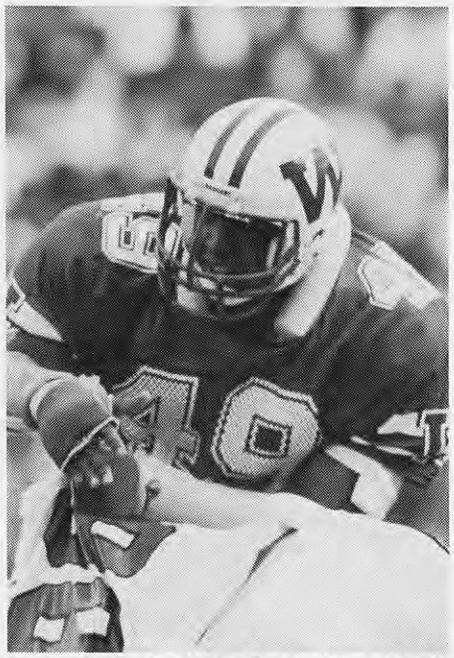
"I'm basically an offensive coach," said Morton, "but I'm bright enough to know that defense wins football games. Our defensive coordinator (Mike Daly) is my right-hand man, he's the first guy I hired when I got the head coaching job.

"We will start with defense, and we want to be well-stocked there. The great quarterback and the great running back are going to stay on offense, but the great lineman and the great linebacker are going to be on defense first. Defense gives a coach job security."

Wisconsin returns just one defensive starter from the final game of 1986 in safety Pete Nowka.

There are, however, a number of other solid lettermen with game experience returning. This group includes noseguard Chad VandeZande, tackle Leon Johnson, inside backers Victor Fortino and David Wings, inverts Tim Knoeck, Dan Kissling, Craig Hudson and Paul Partington, safety Jeff Wagner and cornerback Robert Williams.

Keys to an improved defensive record for the Badgers in 1987 will include reducing their opponent's rushing average (4.1 yards-per-carry in 1986) and cutting down an opponent's points per game average of 22.2.



Inside Linebacker Victor Fortino has solid Big Ten experience.

Noseguard Chad VandeZande heads up the returnees on the defensive line.

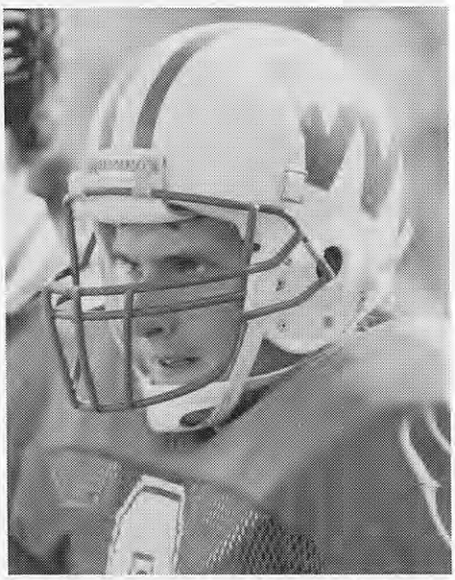
DEFENSIVE LINE: An area of relative inexperience, but good talent is there. The anchor should be steady noseguard Chad VandeZande, a 6-3, 255-pounder who started at tackle in 1986 against NIU, UNLV and Minnesota. Chad contributed 17 tackles, had one QB sack for -8 yards and was credited with two fumble recoveries. Help will also come from letter-winning lineman Leon Johnson (eight tackles), as well as rapidly-improving John Banaszak, Jeff Wolf, Bill Antonie, David Rapps, Jeff Stein, Don Davey, Tim Otto, David Senczyszyn, Tim Lindemann, Jerome Cunningham and Dan Batsch. There could be some surprises here this Fall, and the competition will be fierce.

Incoming freshmen defensive line prospects are Matt Barkley (McKeesport, PA), Scott Boyke (Elmhurst, IL) and Sam Gerrits (Grafton).

LINEBACKERS: At the inside linebacking positions, there are two solid returnees in two-year lettermen Victor Fortino and David Wings. Fortino has solid Big Ten playing experience and was the Badgers' "special teams player of the week" last year against Michigan. The physical Wings, meanwhile, received a starting assignment against Indiana and was credited with 23 tackles on the year.

Other viable candidates who will battle for starting assignments include Robert Newell, Scott Johnson, Jeff Weyker and Matt Miller.

At the newly-created invert position under new defensive coordinator Mike Daly, four returning lettermen will contend in Tim Knoeck, Dan Kissling, Craig Hudson and Paul Partington. Knoeck started four games at outside backer last Fall and marked 21 tackles. Kissling, who lettered as a freshman in 1986, is a 6-2, 230-pound talent who started the Michigan and Iowa games at strong safety. He had 16 tackles on the year, led the Big Ten in kickoff returns with a 27.7 yards-per-return average, and was the Badgers' "special teams player of the week" vs both Wyoming and Michigan State. Hudson could possibly move to a defensive line position, while other challengers will be Aaron Swopes, who enjoyed a strong spring session, and Mike Tams.



An intense competitor, safety Pete Nowka will be a rallying force for Badger defenders this fall. Nowka is the team's only returning starter on defense.

SECONDARY: Pete Nowka is the standout here, and could be a candidate for conference honors. A two-year starter who has also served as the team's defensive signal-caller the past two seasons, Nowka finished fourth in team tackles in 1986 with 77, including 47 solo stops. He also had three touchdown saves, one fumble recovery and one tackle that forced a fumble. He will be joined by junior Brad Mayo (eight tackles), and lettermen Robert Williams and Jeff Wagner. All showed this past spring that they are ready to contribute on a regular basis. Another to watch closely will be sophomore Greg Thomas, a 6-2, 183-pounder who made his presence felt throughout spring ball.

Also vying for playing time in the defensive backfield will be Deanthony Bateman, LaMarr White, and Matt Talarczyk.

New to the defensive backfield as freshmen in 1987 are Eddie Fletcher, Jr (Dallas, TX), Tyrone Mahone (Columbus, GA) and John L. Williams (Houston, TX).

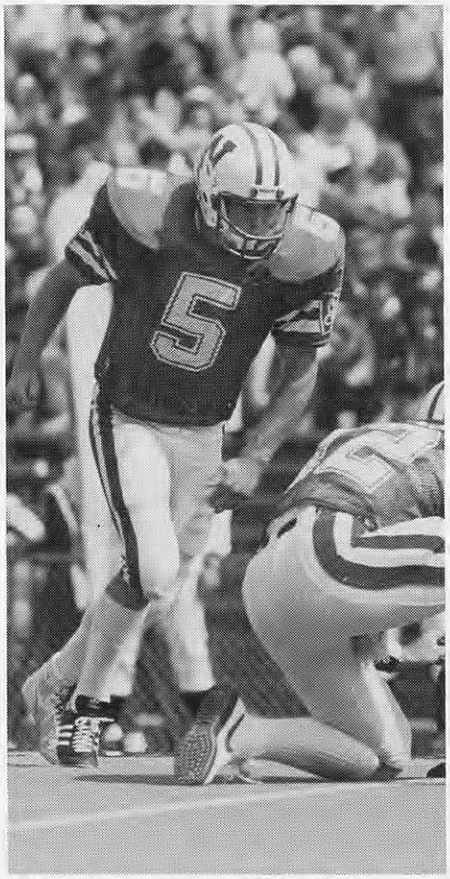
THE SPECIALISTS

Perhaps the strongest of all areas for Wisconsin in 1987 will be the kicking and punting games. The Badgers possess two of the nation's and Big Ten's finest in placekicker Todd Gregoire and punter Scott Cepicky. Both are legitimate post-season honor candidates.

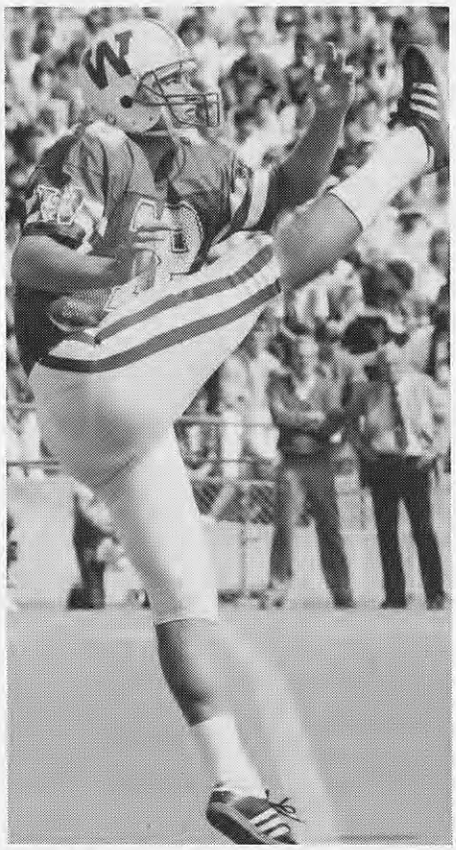
Gregoire, an honorable mention All-Big Ten pick in 1986, is the UW's all-time kick scoring leader heading into his senior season. His 49 career field goals are second in Big Ten history, and he has connected on an amazing 64 of 65 career PAT attempts - missing just one in three full seasons of play.

Cepicky, also honorable mention All-Big Ten a year ago, was fourth in the conference and 12th nationally in punting in 1986 with an average of 43.0 yards-per-punt. He put together a 16-game streak over two seasons in which he connected on at least one 50-yard punt per game.

The Badgers also return the Big Ten's leading kickoff returner in 1986 in sophomore Dan Kissling, who averaged 27.7 yards-per-attempt last Fall.



All-Big Ten candidate and kicker Todd Gregoire is the Badgers' all-time leading kick scorer.



Punter Scott Cepicky was 12th nationally a year ago.

THE CHALLENGE AHEAD

"I'm firmly convinced that because of people like Dave McClain and Jim Hilles, this football program reached a great plateau, added Morton. "There were some great seasons here, and because of them, we are now in a position to take a little bit longer stride. John Kennedy talked about that in the early sixties; taking a longer stride. Getting a man to the moon and back.

"We're facing a great challenge here, what we're going to refer to from now on as 'the the road to Pasadena' . That road is not a four-lane expressway, it's not a super paved highway. There's going to be detours, there's going to be gravel roads, and there's going to be some obstacles. But within every obstacle, down every gravel road, there's going to be a great opportunity. And we're going to travel that road to Pasadena. It goes through Madison, it goes through Ann Arbor, it goes through East Lansing, it goes through W. Lafayette, and so on. It's a fun road and it's a challenging road.

"But what I'm most excited about is that we're not going to travel that road to Pasadena alone. It won't be just the football team and the football staff on that road. I can envision an entire university, an entire city and an entire state traveling down that road together."

BADGER FOOTBALL COACHES

HEAD COACH DON MORTON

Don Morton marks his first season at the University of Wisconsin in 1987, after being named as the Badgers' new head football coach on November 28, 1986.

"I've been preparing for this day for 18 years," Morton said at his initial press conference last winter. "I think it's important for all of us, no matter what our profession and no matter what our career, to pursue a dream. And now we're looking forward to getting the University of Wisconsin football team to pursue a dream.

"Perspective is a word you'll hear me talk a great deal about; I believe very strongly if at first you do succeed, try to hide your astonishment. And that's what I'm trying to do right now - hide my astonishment.

"The first thing I want to do is thank the Dave McClain family, the Jim Hilles family, their assistant coaches and their families for the true margin of excellence that they have brought to the University of Wisconsin Football program. It is because of them that the future of Wisconsin Football is a very bright one. We are extremely indebted to them."

Initially awarded a five-year contract, Morton thus becomes the 26th head coach in the 98-year history of University of Wisconsin Football.

"I am proud to be a part of a university that has a value system," Morton continued, "one that says, 'heh, this is what we believe in, this is what we stand for.' I think that's important in our society.

"In athletics, we talk a great deal about intensity. But intensity is incomplete if you don't know what you're intense about. Here at the University of Wisconsin, we are going to know what we're intense about.

"We want to create a vision for our football players. A vision that is very clear, concise, and attainable."

A 40-year-old native of Flint, Michigan, Morton was born on April 10, 1947 and attended and graduated from that city's Northern High School. Following high school, he moved on to Augustana College in Rock Island, Illinois, playing center for the football team in the late 1960's and earning a Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology in 1969.

His impressive academic background then culminated in a Master of Arts degree in Education and Administration from Western Illinois University in 1974.

Morton began his professional career in 1969 as assistant football and head wrestling coach at Moline High School in Illinois, and served there through 1971.

His successes at Moline High earned him his first collegiate position as offensive line coach and defensive coordinator at Augustana College of South Dakota from 1971-77.

Don then moved on to North Dakota State University as offensive backfield coach from 1977-79, and was succeedingly named head coach at NDSU in 1979.

Morton's six-year head coaching record at North Dakota State was 57-15-0 (.792), with the school winning the North Central Conference title four straight years (1981-84) after placing second in both 1979 and 1980.

While at North Dakota State, his teams participated three times in NCAA Division II Championship playoffs, with the Bison winning the national title in 1983 and placing second in 1981 and 1984.

Morton took the head coaching position at the University of Tulsa following the 1984 season and guided the Hurricanes to the Missouri Valley Conference title with a perfect 5-0-0 record (6-5-0 overall) in his first campaign of 1985.

Tulsa dropped out of the Missouri Valley Conference following the 1985 season and in 1986 campaigned as an independent, posting a 7-4-0 record. The Hurricanes ranked third nationally in rushing offense at 289.0 yards per game, and 14th nationally in total offense at 414.0 yards per game.

Morton's eight-season record as a head coach is 70-24-0 (.745) - 57-15-0 at North Dakota State and 13-9-0 at the University of Tulsa.

Now, he faces the biggest challenge of his coaching career. But he has surrounded himself with people he believes in, capable assistants who together form a well-conceived unit that has known success.

"You'll find our coaching staff will have a superior concern for people," Morton said. "We like to talk about a deep and abiding respect for the dignity and potential of every person within our football program - from the assistant coaches, to the players, to the custodians, to the waitress that pours our ice tea on an away trip.

"I'm not a genius, and I'm not a magician. He's to the southeast of us in college football. But we believe in doing a thousand little things one percent better than our competition. We want to be highly organized; we want to do all the little things right. The difference that will make a difference at the University of Wisconsin is people - living and working and doing their very best on a day in and day out basis. And if we do that, we're going to be successful; the scoreboard will take care of itself.

"What I'm excited about at the University of Wisconsin is they are not going to corrupt the educational process. When we make a fraud of a student-athlete for the sake of winning, that is not winning at all. That has not happened here, and it will not happen here.

"That so-called 'dumb-jock' is not born. He is systematically created when we let him go through a system unchallenged. As a coaching staff, we will continue that great tradition of challenging young people on a day-to-day basis - academically and football-wise.

"I think it's important for all of us to realize one thing; we are involved in a game. It is a game played by young people and not every play will be perfect, there will be mistakes made. We have to keep that in mind.

"I'm in the toy department at the university. There are a lot more important things going on across campus. This is fun, and we have to keep this game in perspective."

Don and his wife, Susan, have two children - daughter Stephanie, age 15, and son Joshua, age 12.

Quarterback Randy Wright, currently with the NFL's Green Bay Packers, guided Wisconsin to a memorable 6-0 win at Ohio State in 1982 - the Badgers' first win in Columbus since 1918.

Quarterback Mike Kalasmiki (18) was the Badgers' "MVP" in 1978, a year in which late coach Dave McClain led the UW to a winning record in his first season.

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN ATHLETIC FACILITIES

THE FOOTBALL COMPLEX

76,293-seat Camp Randall Stadium - home to the Wisconsin football team and some of the nation's most enthusiastic fans.

The front lobby of the Wisconsin football office complex features a comfortable lounge area, trophy case and assorted memorabilia.

Wisconsin's football program, located on the north side of 76,293—seat Camp Randall Stadium, occupies some of the most impressive office facilities anywhere.

From the spacious surroundings of the office of Head Coach Don Morton and private paneled offices for each of the Badgers' assistant coaches, to comfortable lounges for players and visitors, the Wisconsin football complex is truly complete.

The football program also has at its disposal seven conference rooms for individual player/coach or position meetings, film viewing rooms, and study areas. Located adjacent to the UW sports medicine and training room are player and coaches' lockerrooms.

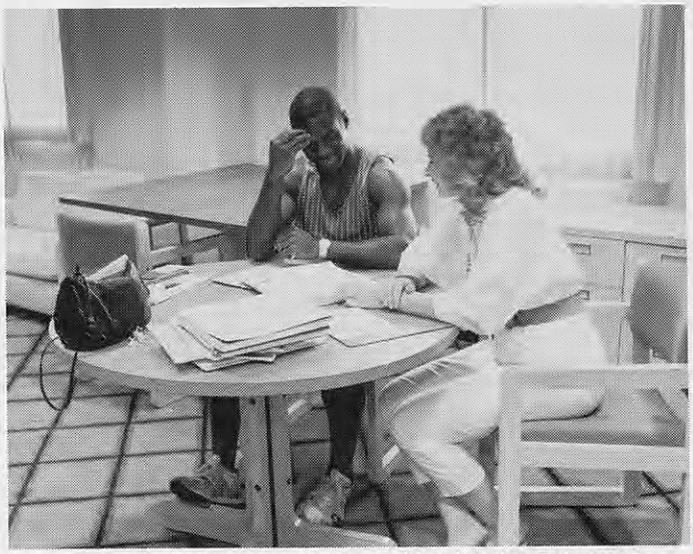
And now, even more excitement is in the air around Camp Randall Stadium these days, as the Wisconsin football program eagerly anticipates the opening of the Dave McClain Athletic Facility in the fall of 1988.

Head Coach Don Morton's spacious office.

The multi-level Wisconsin football office complex also includes study and lounge areas for the players.

Each assistant coach at Wisconsin also has his own comfortable "home away from home".

The latest in computer technology has come to the Wisconsin football program for 1987. Shown here is a new set-up for analyzing game films, player performance, etc.



Wisconsin football players receive the best in education. Tutors and counseling are always available.

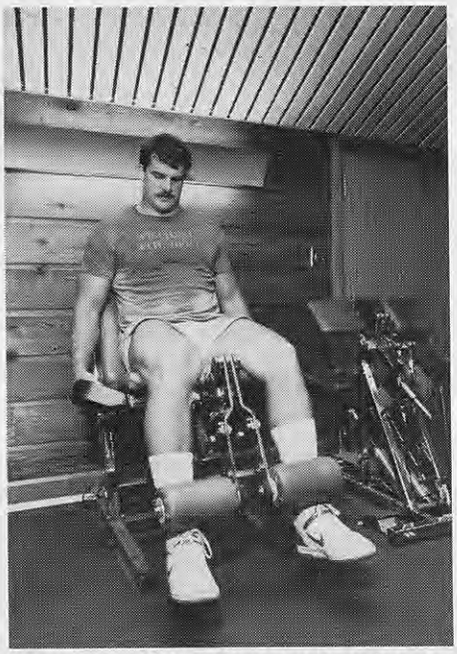
THE STRENGTH PROGRAM

At the University of Wisconsin, the "physical fitness" of student-athletes is of primary concern.

Under the direction of Ray Moran, the UW strength program has made great strides and earned recognition as one of the best in the Big Ten.

"First and foremost, our goal here is to make better athletes - through an individual's recognition of his full potential," said Moran. "And naturally, within this program, we hope to help in the prevention of injury.

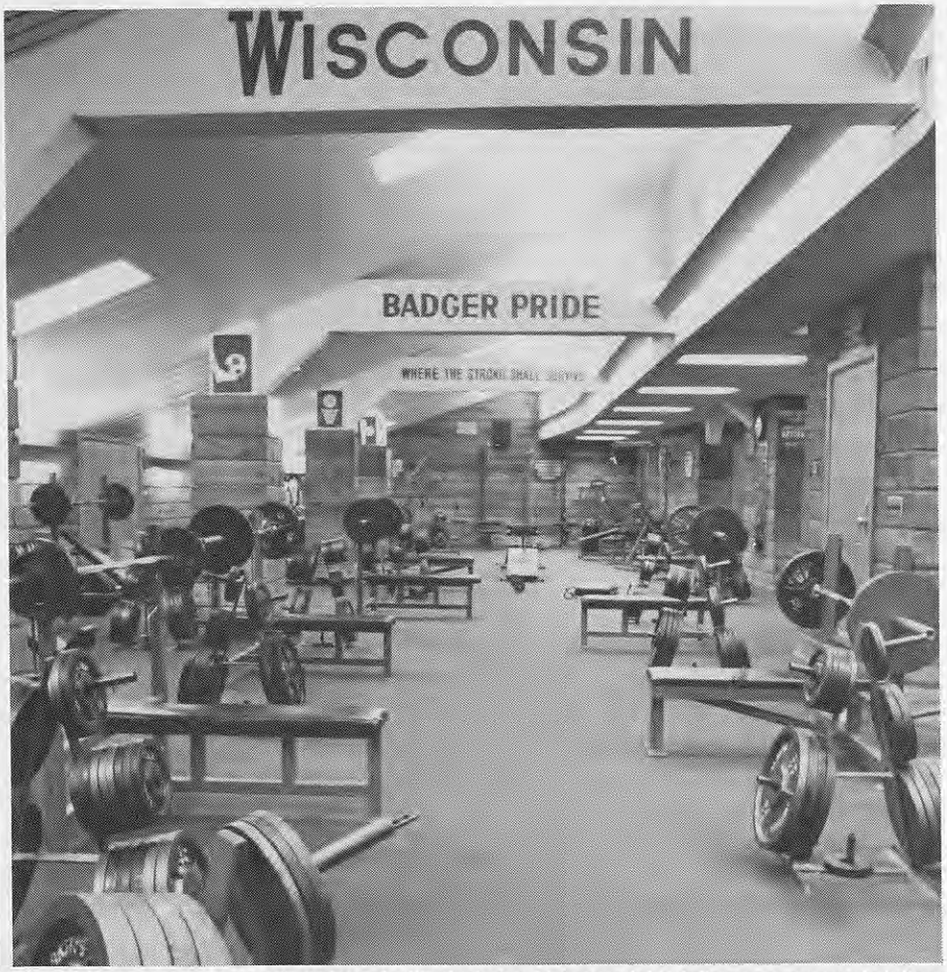
"But," he points out, "our primary purpose is not to prevent injuries. It is to develop better athletes."



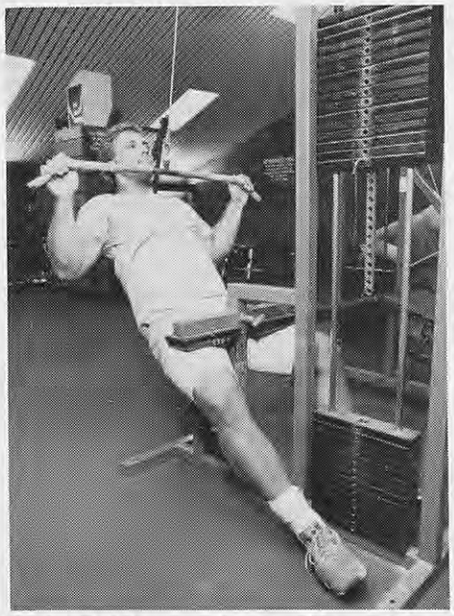
Offensive guard Paul Gruber works out on one of the five pieces of modern Keiser equipment also included in the UW weight-training room.

Strength training at Wisconsin consists of several year-round programs. For football, for instance, the strength program would include a pre-season training program, in-season and winter conditioning programs, as well as spring and summer programs. The football team normally uses the strength training facility two hours per day, four days per week.

Each sport that utilizes the weight room is fully supervised by either Moran or one of his assistants. Moran's staff will analyze and chart an individual athlete's week-by-week progress, as well as plan individual and team conditioning programs. And strength training means more than just weight lifting. It also includes agility and flexibility development.



The 4,000-square foot strength training facility includes 21 free-weight stations, seven squat stations (including four electric squat racks), ten bench press stations, four wall-pully cable stations, and more than 38,000-pounds of free weights.



Center Rod Lossow, who was 230 pounds as a freshman in 1983 and now is listed at 272, is just one of many players who have recorded tremendous gains in strength and endurance under the supervision of Ray Moran and his weight-training staff.

Open from 7:00 am to 8:00 pm six days per week, Camp Randall's 4,000 square foot Wisconsin weight room contains some of the finest training equipment on the market today. Moran points to 38,000 pounds of free weight, 21 olympic bars, 21 free-weight stations, seven squat stations (of which four are electric squat racks), ten bench press stations, four wall-pully cable stations, five pieces of Keiser equipment (based on pneumatic pressure and used especially for high-speed training), and three full set dumbbells (5-100 pounds, in five-pound increments).

It's a good set-up, but the best is yet to come. With the opening of Wisconsin's new Dave McClain indoor practice facility set for the fall of 1988, comes a new, state-of-the-art computerized weight training room that will consist of some 7,000 square feet.

Along with all new training equipment will be a separate computer room for evaluating athletes, a maintenance room, strength training offices, and a glass-enclosed conference area with seating for ten to 15 people.

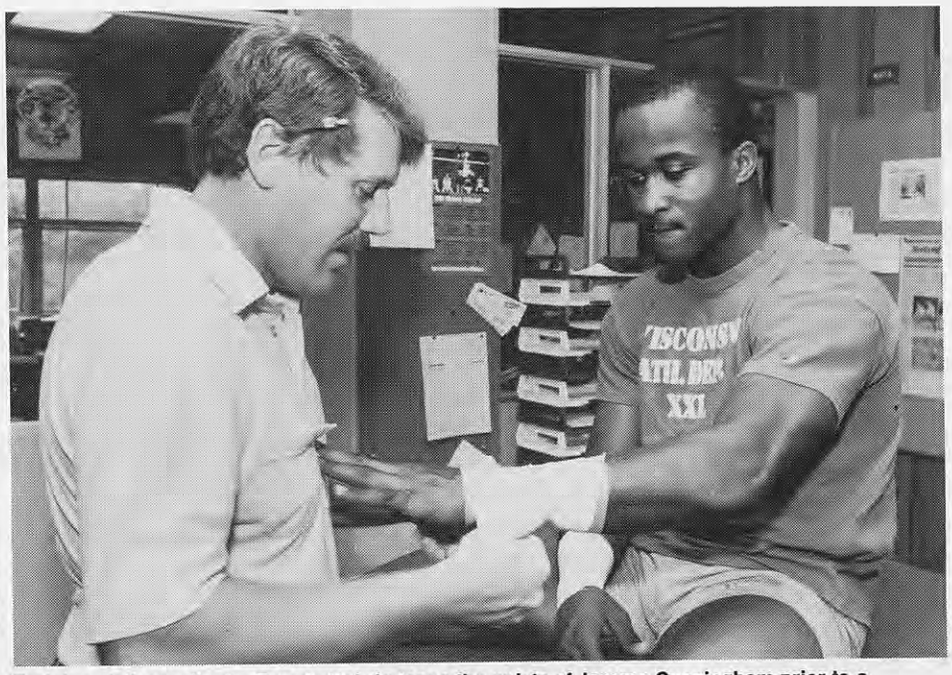
ATHLETIC TRAINING FACILITIES

The Wisconsin athletic training department is also housed in Camp Randall Stadium - located adjacent to the football offices and lockerroom and just above the weight training room.

Six full-time trainers, headed up by staff coordinator Dennis Helwig, two graduate assistants, and some 20 students are on hand each day to assist the more than 900 University of Wisconsin student-athletes in their needs.

In addition to the main training facility in Camp Randall Stadium, the department also has five satellite facilities around the campus. There is one at the UW Fieldhouse, the Red Gym, the natatorium, the Dane County Memorial Coliseum, and Neilsen Tennis Stadium.

Helwig and his staff put the main emphasis of their work on preventive programs. Their daily routines include coordinating the physiological testing of athletes, enlisting computer programs such as Anjion (dietary analysis) to provide nutritional strength weaknesses, working with attending physicians in rehabilitation of student-athletes, working to improve individual athletic performance, and outlining preventive stretching programs to aid in avoiding the reoccurrance of past injuries. The trainers also advise athletes as to what type of treatments they should do and refer them to appropriate physicians.



Training staff coordinator Dennis Helwig tapes the wrists of Jerome Cunningham prior to a practice.

Training table ensures the best in diets for University of Wisconsin football players.

Thanks to the introduction of computers into the training department two years ago, the UW staff now has the capability of "tracking" sports injuries; in other words, diagnosing when and where these injuries most often occur. This information has proved extremely helpful to coaches in devising conditioning programs and practices for their teams.

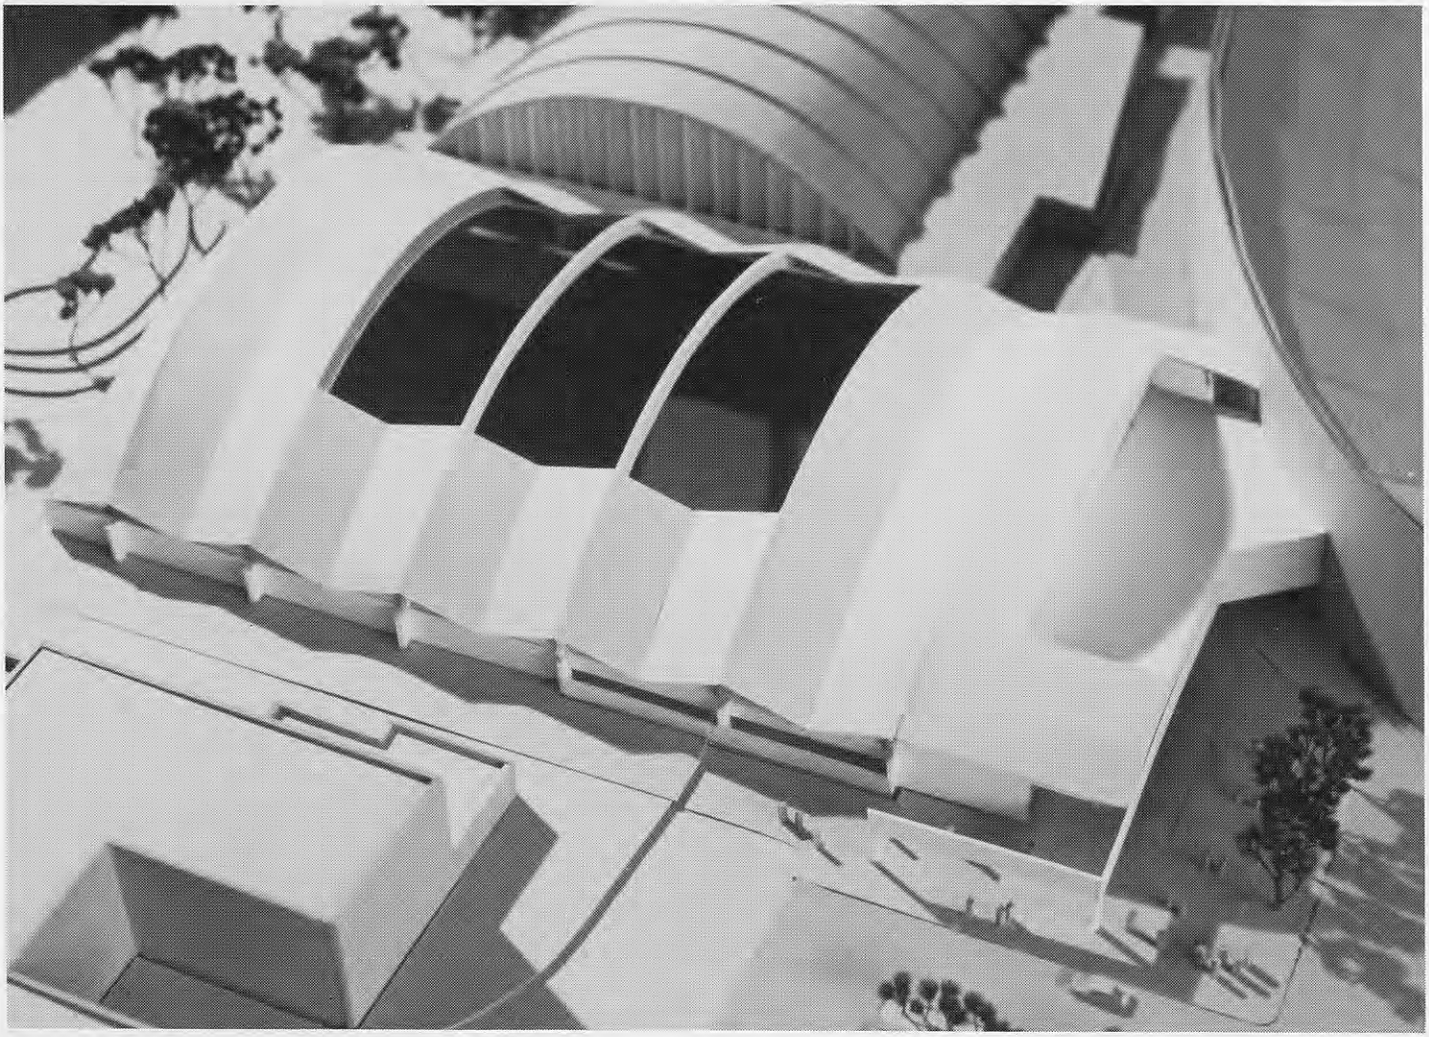
The UW training staff is also proud of their close working relationship with Madison-area physicians, some of whom regularly visit the campus to see injured athletes. Working directly with the Wisconsin football team is head team physician Dr. William Clancy, orthopedic surgeons Jim Keene and Ben Graf, and Dr. Greg Landry, who handles internal medical problems for UW athletics.

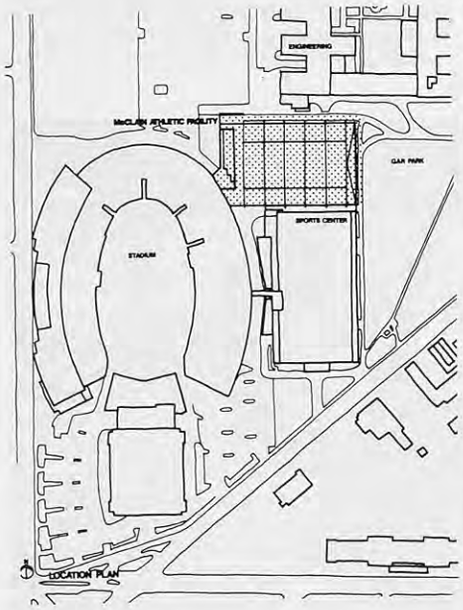
"The frequency of visits to the campus by our attending physicians," reports Helwig, "helps us with rehabilitation programs and shortens significantly the return to competition for our injured athletes. These individuals make a very large and very important contribution to the success of our athletic programs."

The Madison area is blessed with some of the best medical facilities anywhere - including the renowned UW Hospital and Clinics. UW athletes are always seen on a priority basis, and are assured of only the very best in medical care.

The UW training room is one of the busiest places on campus during the football season, as the staff attends to the needs of more than 120 student-athletes.

THE DAVE McCLAIN ATHLETIC FACILITY





The University of Wisconsin is justly proud of its long and distinguished tradition of success in intercollegiate athletics.

But within any winning athletic tradition, one will find a complex combination of ingredients; "building blocks" that are essential to the development and maintenance of that success. These "building blocks" include talented student-athletes, outstanding coaches, faithful supporters and fans, and modern facilities.

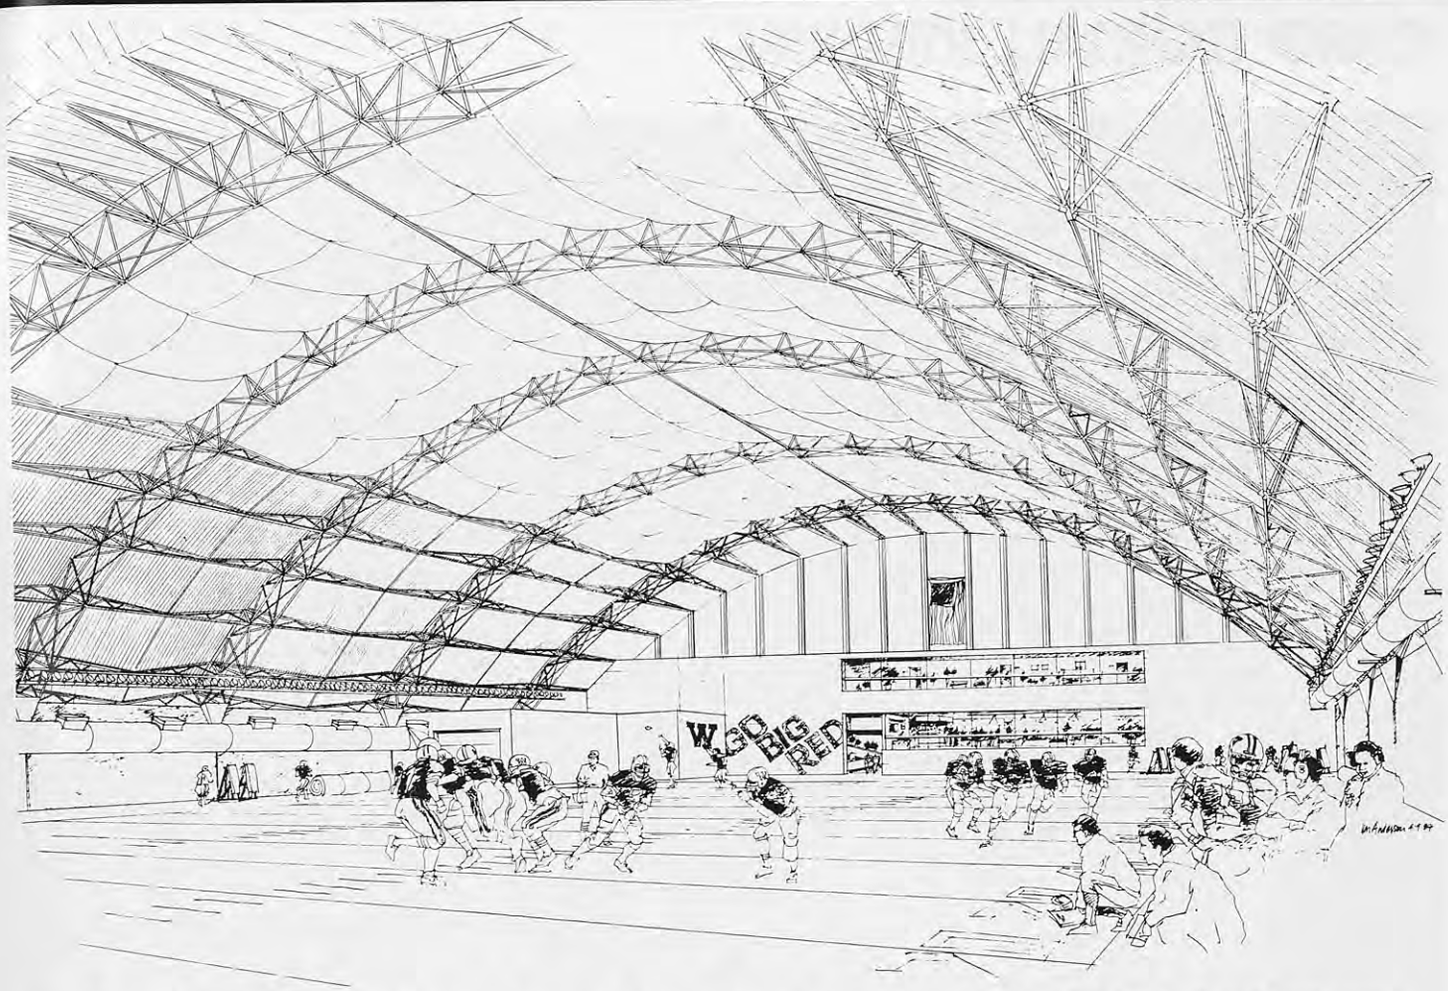
With the success of Badger Football (football revenues provide nearly 80 percent of the financial support for UW Athletics) impacting on the entire 25-sport men's and women's athletic program here at the University of Wisconsin, the UW has recently embarked on the construction of an indoor athletic facility that should help ensure the continued good health of its teams.

The Dave McClain Athletic Facility, named in honor of the late Wisconsin football coach, is expected to usher in a new era in Wisconsin athletics.

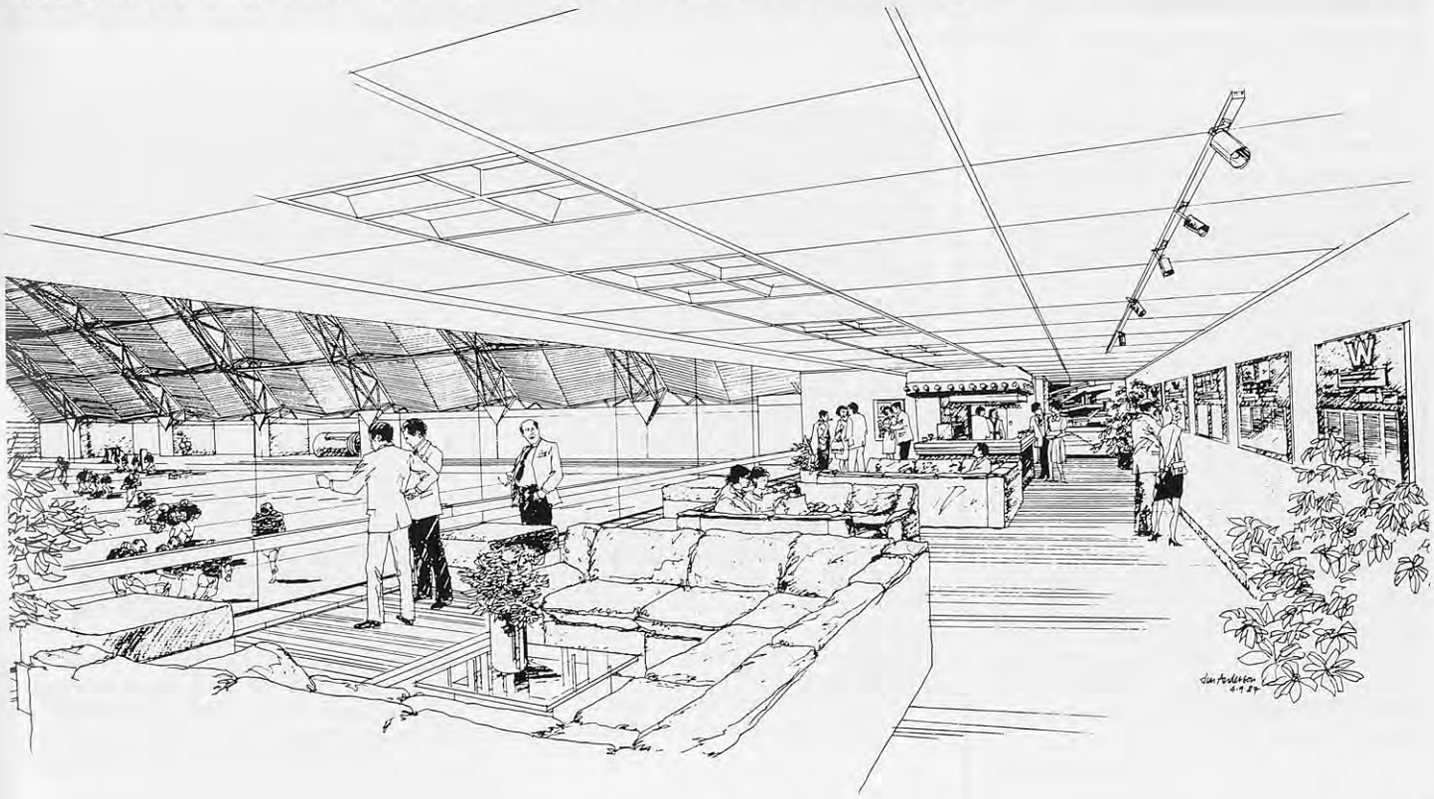
Set for occupancy in the Fall of 1988, the 166,264-square foot Dave McClain Athletic Facility will compare with the finest facilities in the country. For Badger Football, it will provide an indoor environment that will improve practice conditions during in-season inclement weather and post-season practice periods, as well as assist student athletes' off-season conditioning and skill development.

But the Dave McClain Athletic Facility will not strictly be for football. Men's and women's soccer teams as well as the Wisconsin baseball team will have access to the indoor practice area, along with physical education and recreational sports programs as time permits.

The 76,380-square foot main floor of the new facility will feature an artificial turf practice area, with adequate space for all components of practice including height for kicking and punting. The building's 64,320-square foot lower level will house showers, lockers and dressing areas; a modern athletic training area - including hydrotherapy space; supply and storage areas; and a new weight-training room.



The McClain Athletic Facility, at a total cost of $9.5 million, will be constructed on the existing outdoor practice field immediately north of Camp Randall Memorial Sports Center. The facility will be bordered on the north by the Engineering building, the east by Camp Randall Park, and on the west by parking lot #17 and Camp Randall Stadium. Direct access will be provided via a corridor from the facility to the football offices in the stadium.



CAMP RANDALL STADIUM

Camp Randall's 76,293-seat capacity ranks the stadium among the nation's largest.

Camp Randall Stadium, the home of the University of Wisconsin Football Team, is recognized as one of the finest collegiate facilities in the nation.

From its impressive doubledeck, horseshoe design and 76,293-seat capacity, to its modern and spacious Communications Center, the UW is proud that its sports center is more than just an athletic field.

The ninth largest college-owned structure in the nation and third largest in the Big Ten, Camp Randall's official capacity of 76,293 is surpassed only by Michigan (101,701), Tennessee (91,249), Ohio State (85,290), Stanford (84,795), Penn State (83,770), Georgia (82,122), Texas (80,000) and Clemson (78,915).

The Badgers have drawn crowds of at least 77,280 on 17 occasions since 1980, and on 30 occasions since 1975. The all-time single game attendance record at Camp Randall Stadium is 80,024, set against Michigan in 1978.

Wisconsin ranked 14th in the nation in 1985 per game attendance with an average of 71,613, while the 1984 school record attendance of 74,681 per game ranked the Badgers 13th.

Located atop the West side of Camp Randall's double deck, the Communications Center ranks as one of the nation's finest facilities for press, radio and television. The fourth level serves the needs of the print media and is the game headquarters for the UW Sports News Service. Radio broadcasts of Wisconsin football originate from the newly remodeled third level - which was improved and expanded in the summer of 1985 - while television broadcasts originate on the fifth level.

In addition to serving as the home of Wisconsin Football, Camp Randall Stadium also houses the UW Athletic Department, the athletic training facility and staff, and the National "W" Club.

THE HISTORY OF CAMP RANDALL

Although the original structure was built in 1917, the history of the Camp Randall area itself dates back much further than the 69 years of the stadium.

In the years prior to the Civil War, the original site was owned by the State Agricultural Society, whose yearly state fairs attracted holidaying throngs there.

When the Civil War broke out in 1861, however, the society turned the land over to the government to become Wisconsin's major military training center. Named for a wartime governor, the site became known as "Camp Randall Military Training Center".

The land again became the state fair grounds when peace returned, and when General U.S. Grant visited it 15 years later, he hailed the transformation from a wartime military training center to the site of the annual state fair as "a symbol of beating the spears of war into the plowshares of peace." (Others who had visited the grounds included General Sherman, General Sheridan and President Hayes.)

Three enlargements to Camp Randall since World War II raised the capacity from 45,000 to today's total of 76,293.

Following the eventual move of the Wisconsin State Fair to Milwaukee, it was decided that the land should be sold for building lots. This decision infuriated surviving Civil War veterans. Blasting this "sordid sacrilege", they promptly urged the legislature to purchase the land, and in 1893 the State of Wisconsin presented the site to the university as a memorial athletic field. And when the question of a name arose, the vets naturally carried the day for "camp" instead of "field".

Football became a part of the University of Wisconsin athletic scene in 1889, but the first games were actually played on the lower part of the campus, with a part of the crowd regularly watching from fringed surreys. (Wisconsin won its first great victory home in 1894, defeating Minnesota 6-0.)

1958 saw the elimination of the running track, the playing field was lowered ten feet, and 12,000 seats were added to bring capacity to 63,435.

The University had a "real" stadium by 1913, but the stands were still constructed of wood. The legislature had declined to pay the extra expense of concrete and consequently was blamed when a large section collapsed on Nov. 21, 1915 and injured 20 spectators. (Only the fact that the seats fell slowly prevented more casualties from among the 1,800 in the area.)

In 1917, a new 10,000-seat concrete structure was begun with a grant of $15,000 from the state legislature. (The rest of the money to finance the project was earned through University athletic events.)

The first game to be played in the "new" Camp Randall Stadium in 1917 was the memorable Homecoming matchup with the Minnesota Golden Gophers - a game the Badgers won 10-7.

In 1921, capacity was increased to 29,783, then to 38,293 in 1926, and to 45,000 in 1940 - before the first of three enlargements since the end of World War II took place. 1950 and 1951 saw the completion of the horseshoe at the north end of the stadium and capacity was upped to 51,000.

In 1958, the running track was eliminated from Camp Randall, the playing field was lowered ten feet, and 12,000 more seats were added to give the facility a total of 63,435 seats. The addition of the second deck on the west side in 1966 created 13,000 more prime viewing seats as well as the modern Communications Center, and capacity rose to 77,280.

1984 saw the creation of 14 private boxes - each with seating for up to ten people - on the fifth level of the Communications Center, while a 1985 construction project on the third level of the Communications Center created ten new booths for radio broadcasts.

THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN

The University's intercollegiate athletic program includes men's competition in football, basketball, ice hockey, track and field, soccer, swimming, tennis, rowing, wrestling, baseball, cross country, golf, gymnastics and fencing.

The Wisconsin Union has been providing a variety of services and an extensive program of social, cultural, and recreational events for students. Memorial Union, on the shores of Lake Mendota, is a center of activity for some 18,000 people every day. Another 10,000 enter Union South, and more than 11,000 meals are served daily in the Wisconsin Union's 11 restaurants and delis.

The Elvehjem Museum of Art houses the University's collection of more than 10,000 paintings, prints, drawings, sculpture, and decorative arts dating from 2300 B.C. to the present, and maintains an active schedule of temporary exhibits.

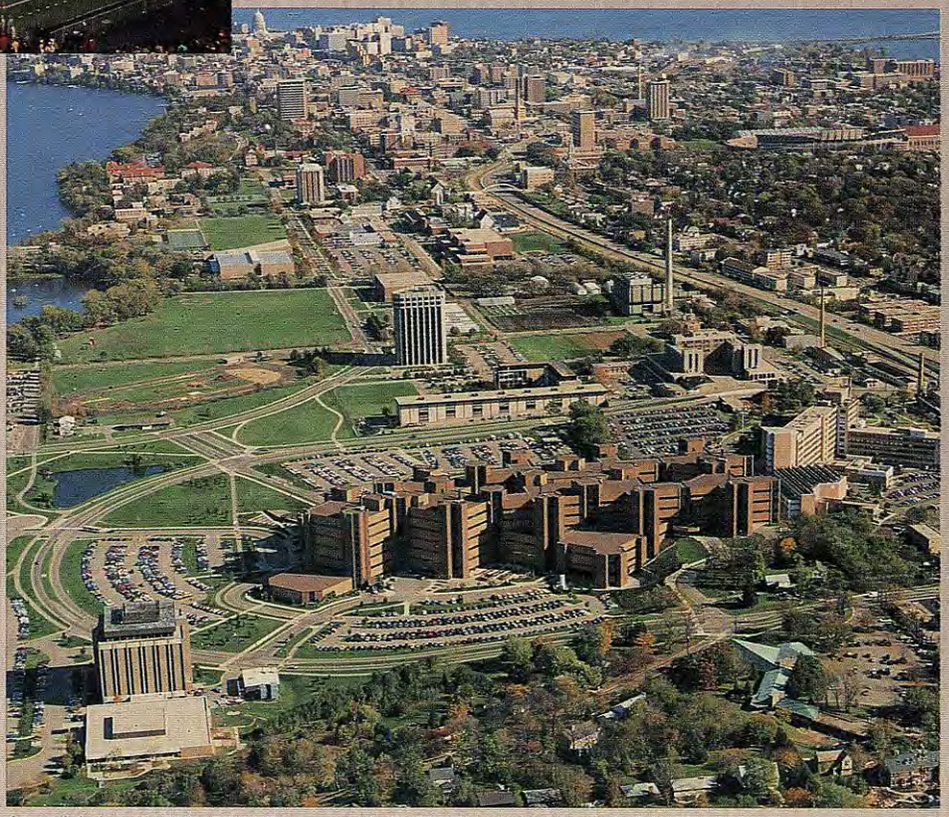
The rich colors of autumn lead the eye down Bascom Hill and out to the State Capitol.

Camp Randall stadium - the inspirational home of the football Badgers.

As you can see, the University of Wisconsin offers something for everyone. From unsurpassed academics and educational environment, to a wide variety of activities and excellence in athletics, UW students receive an experience they will cherish and benefit from the rest of their lives.

University Theater, School of Music, and the Dance Division offer a wide range of performances throughout the year. Facilities include the Ronald E. Mitchell and Gilbert Hemsley theaters in Vilas Communication Hall, Mills Concert Hall, Morphy Recital Hall, and the Eastman Organ Recital Hall. The Wisconsin Union Theater, with 1,300 seats, hosts visiting concert artists, orchestras, professional theater and dance companies, conferences, lectures and films.

Situated amidst five fresh-water lakes and rolling hills, the University of Wisconsin is one of the most enchanting campuses in America. It sits on the south shore of Lake Mendota, encompassing more than 300 buildings and 900 acres of land - most within two blocks of the lake. There is beautiful and green Bascom Hill. A 129-acre peninsula - complete with hiking trails - known as Picnic Point. There is the vibrant pedestrian State Street Mall - lined with unique shops and restaurants. The on-the-hour ringing bells of Carillon Tower and 76,293-seat Camp Randall Stadium.



An aerial view of UW Hospital, the campus, Lake Mendota, and on towards the capitol.
